

Practical Project

"Legends of Olympus"

Practical Project

Literature

Project aim: The aim of this project is to explore the legends and myths of Olympus, as well as the ways in which they have been represented in literature. Students will engage with these legends and myths by visiting historic sites during the EdYOUfest Historical Walk, and then creating their own literary works inspired by these legends.

Teachers' perspective: Teachers will guide students through the project, providing support and feedback as needed. They will facilitate discussions and activities related to literature, mythology, and creative writing, and help students develop their language skills by providing language support as needed.

Project requests:

1. Students will visit online historic sites related to the legends and myths of Olympus during the EdYOUfest Historical Walk, and reflect on the stories and their significance.
2. Students will research literary works that have been inspired by the legends of Olympus, such as poetry, plays, and novels.
3. Students will write their own literary works inspired by the legends of Olympus, using a variety of forms such as poetry, short stories, or plays.
4. Students will present their literary works to the class, and receive feedback and support from their peers and teachers.
5. The final presentation will be recorded and shared with the EdYOUfest community, as well as local libraries and literary organizations.

Overall, the "Legends of Olympus" project aims to engage students in the study of literature and mythology, while encouraging them to explore their own creativity and imagination. The project provides a practical way for students to apply what they learn during the EdYOUfest Historical Walk, and to develop their language and research skills while deepening their understanding of the legends and myths of Olympus.
